

A FREE 7-DAY RESET GUIDE

The Discipline Reset

7 days to stop procrastinating, keep the promises you make to yourself, and actually finish what you start — no motivation required.

BUILT FOR PEOPLE WHO SET GOALS & NEVER FOLLOW THROUGH

You don't have a motivation problem.

You have a system problem. This guide fixes it in 7 days.

If you're honest, you already know what to do. You just don't do it. You plan a productive morning and wake up to your phone instead. You start strong on Monday and quit by Wednesday.

That isn't weakness — that's relying on willpower, which always runs out. Discipline is different. It's a small set of systems that make the right action the easy one, even on your worst days. Over the next 7 days you'll install three of them, one at a time.

DAYS

One small change each day.
Most take under 10 minutes.

SYSTEMS

Clarity, friction, and a streak you can actually keep.

MOTIVATION NEEDED

Designed to work even when you feel like doing nothing.

Part One

Get clear, then make it easy.

01 Choose One Thing — not ten

- Pick the single habit that would change the most. One. Not a list.
- Shrink it until it's almost too easy: “read one page,” not “read 30 minutes.”
- State exactly when and where: “After I brush my teeth, I will do 5 push-ups.”

Why it works: vague goals (“get fit”) get skipped. Specific, tiny actions get done — and small actions compound.

02 Remove the Friction

- Make the good thing 20 seconds easier: gym clothes out the night before, water on your desk.
- Make the bad thing 20 seconds harder: phone in another room, notifications off, apps logged out.
- Design your environment once so you don't have to fight yourself all day.

Why it works: you don't rise to your goals, you fall to your environment. Change the room, not just the mindset.

Part Two

Protect the streak — then track it.

03 Never Miss Twice

- Missing one day is normal and harmless. Missing two becomes a new habit — so don’t allow it.
- Lower the bar on hard days: a two-minute version still counts and keeps the chain alive.
- Check it off visibly every single day. The streak itself becomes the reward.

Why it works: consistency beats intensity. A habit you keep for 30 boring days beats a perfect week you abandon.
